I don't care if you decide not to continue the annual pass. If you raised the cost for one day from $14 to $20 or $24 with electric per day, it still would be $36 for one night (with reservation fee). You could say the first night $24 and $20 for the following nights. After 6 nights back to $24 on that stay. That might allow more folks a chance to get a site.

I am a winter camper from the Midwest who stays in N. Mexico and you will be completely pricing my wife and me out of the state. I spend a lot of money in N. Mexico while here as do so called snow birds. Plesse take into account there's a state to the west called AZ where there is boondocking in a warmer climate. We'll be there if you implement the extreme changes we have read about!

Thank you. Gerald Thieme.
